Outside requesters have given us a busy time. Ken went [redacted] to deliver a lecture for OTE's Senior Officers Development Course on the uses of history. He also took Bob to Headquarters for a get-acquainted session with the Legislative Liaison Division.

Back at Ames Building, [redacted] assisted David Patterson, a Department of State historian, in finding the proper channel for acquiring an unclassified Agency report on Soviet Civil Defense. She also scanned some histories related to the Korean War and provided the general guidance requested by Hank Psianko (CRD) who was preparing declassification guidelines for NARS on the Korean period.

STAT

Our major undertaking was for [redacted] DDO/IMS, who is working on the GAO investigation of alleged Agency sponsorship of the immigration of Nazi war criminals. After a thorough search of our holdings for anything relevant, [redacted] referred him to four published histories and one incomplete draft. Upon receipt of his written request, xerox copies of these histories (totalling hundreds of pages) were sent to [redacted]
